Its Director, David Wright, has over 20 years' professional experience, gained almost exclusively in the arts sector. A chartered member of the Royal Institute of British Architects, David has designed, built and refurbished many high-profile arts buildings in the UK and abroad, and was Design Director for the restorations of the London Coliseum, Brighton Museum and Art Gallery, and the Qatar International Convention Centre. He is currently heading up the design of a new National Museum in the Sultanate of Oman. He also provides specialist historic building and interiors consultancy, brief-writing and project development services.

David is supported by an Architectural team consisting of Richard Buss, an Architectural Technologist with 12 years' experience, and assistant architects Johnny Chit and Laura Ashwell. Our architectural office is located in the vibrant atmosphere of Chatham Historic Dockyard.

In addition to architectural design, we provide wider Consultancy services when required. David provides Theatre Planning and Interior Design consultancy. Senior Consultants Rowena Willard-Wright and Jacqueline Riding each bring over 15 years' experience working with museums, cultural organisations and historic buildings to the team.

Our long-time experience in the arts sector means we can call on other highly experienced individuals and specialist consultant firms to join our team and tailor it to specific client needs, thus offering a bespoke service at highly economic rates.

David's passion for the visual and performing arts, together with a deep commitment to the fulfilment of his clients' individual needs in the creation of their built environment, lie at the heart of the ArtsArchitecture ethos.
